PRINCIPAL'S REPORT – Gayle Yardley

YEAR 6 EXHIBITION

Yesterday saw the final product of our Year 6 Exhibition which was the result of the students' inquiry into the transdisciplinary theme, How We Express Ourselves, with the central idea being 'Art can change the world'. Our students chose an issue of global significance for their inquiries and explored different art forms and how the artist can use that to communicate an idea, before choosing their own art form as a medium to communicate to and influence their audience. The students presented their knowledge and understandings to their fellow students, teachers from other PYP and local schools, our own teachers, parents and the wider community. It's a time that is very demanding, putting our students to the test and I must say, our Year 6 students rose to the challenge! We were extremely proud of how they demonstrated their depth of knowledge, critical thinking skills and articulated the actions that resulted from the inquiries, along with their hopes for changes in the future. The Exhibition was testament to the students' strong development as learners throughout their years at CSPS, demonstrating their growing awareness of the world around them and the active role that they intend to take in the world. This marks a transition into the next stage of their education and we congratulate them at this important 'milestone' time in their lives. I also thank and congratulate the Year 6 teaching team; Bronwyn Fensham, Jacqueline Yokome and Andy Stefaniak for the energy, effort and skill that went into the planning, teaching and support at this time. All CSPS teachers also took on the role of mentor for a group of Year 6 students, giving their time to support and mentor them through the inquiry cycle and Exhibition. I found this a very rewarding and enjoyable experience, even though at times I felt quite challenged! I was extremely impressed with the depth of learning and understanding of my own group and of all the students as they presented the Exhibition yesterday. The feedback from those outside our own school gave fair reason for students, parents and our school to be extremely proud. Congratulations to all involved.

BOOK WEEK DRESS UP PARADE

The final celebration for Book Week was again our popular Book Character Parade. I'm not sure who had the most fun; students or teachers! Thank you to Ms Nestor, our English Coordinator, for her organisation of activities for Book Week. It's great to see children being excited about books and reading, and I thank the parents who helped to ensure the parade was a great success.

FATHER'S DAY STALL AND BREAKFAST

A big "Thank you" to Nicky Postan and her team, whose efforts provided the scrumptious breakfast that was attended by so many of our CSPS children, dads and special father figures in our children's lives. This is a favourite activity and it's wonderful to see such a celebration of family appreciation.

The very popular Father's/Special Person's Day Stall was so well organised it ran like clockwork! We thank our terrific parents who are so generous with their volunteer time and thank Tamara Bryan who coordinated this event with her helpers ensuring its success.

YEAR 4 CAMP

Last week I was lucky to visit Year 4 at Camp Manyung Mt Eliza, along with a special visitor, Mr (Gibbo) Gibson who gave the children a great surprise. The whole camp had a feeling of warmth and friendship and it was lovely to see such camaraderie amongst the children and the staff; an opportunity for students and teachers to see one another in a different light. The outdoor education activities enable students to practise the PYP attitudes, including respect, co-operation, confidence and empathy, along with opportunities to further develop social skills. I am grateful to organiser, David Mackay and the teachers who attended and was not at all surprised that the feedback from everyone was so extremely positive.

WACKY WEDNESDAY

What fabulous fun Preps had this morning, dressing up for another celebration of reading and literature. It's wonderful to see the effort our teachers make to engage and motivate our students to read and learn. Thank you Prep teachers!

(See our fun-filled photo page in this newsletter!)

Warm regards to all,
Gayle

SCHOOL CONCERT

Once again, we're heading into that exciting time when all the hard work and practice for our annual concert comes together in a fabulous night of entertainment! I wish the students, teachers and especially our Ms Hoffman the very best of wishes for next Wednesday's performance of 'SHOWBIZ KIDZ'.

IMPORTANT- PLANNING FOR 2018

If you know of any families that have not yet enrolled students for the 2018 school year or yet to advise us of students in Years Prep to 5 who will be leaving our school at the end of this year, we would be very grateful if you could ask them to contact the school as soon as possible, as the task of planning the staffing and school structures for 2018 is now underway.

'Weak' parents are raising a generation of 'prince boofhead' boys

Weak parenting of boys is creating a generation of entitled brats who think they are owed the world and can lash out in violence when they do not get their way, adolescent psychologist Michael Carr-Gregg has said.

Mr Carr-Gregg has worked with families for three decades and said he was seeing an unmistakable increase in disrespectful and contemptuous boys who had a false belief they were flawless.

He said it stemmed from boys being raised to see the world, "as one giant, personalised, all-singing, all-dancing, 24/7 catering service exclusively for them".

TIPS FOR RAISING EMPATHETIC BOYS

- Show your son that you love him whether he wins or loses.
- Let your boys experience adversity.
- Foster a relationship with a supportive, charismatic adult.
- Let him take responsibility for his contribution to disappointing outcomes.
- Be your own hero. Don't live vicariously through your son.
- Never put up with intimidating or violent behaviour — even if it seems trivial.
- Seek professional help if violence, mental illness or substance abuse are interfering with development.

Source: The Prince Boofhead Syndrome book

"I do lay [responsibility] at the feet of parents," he told News Breakfast.

"I know that's not a popular thing to do and people will call me a parent-basher.

"But parents are actually becoming, in my view, weaker than ever before."

Mr Carr-Gregg has dubbed this "prince boofhead" syndrome, and has examined the issue in a new book co-authored with researcher Elly Robinson.

They conclude that the "child-centred parenting movement" that sprung up in response to the more authoritarian parenting practices of past generations had gone too far.

"There's so much pressure on the parents, driven by guilt, by God knows what, to actually accede to the requests of these kids," Mr Carr-Gregg said.

"Basic things like bed times. Kids need nine hours' sleep. They're not getting it.

"Every single research study shows they're in bed with their technology.

"Get the technology out of the bedroom."

'MUMS ARE COPPING THE WORST OF IT'

Among the worst manifestations of the "prince boofhead" boys are the ones who turn their aggression towards women in general, and their mums in particular.

"While boys are not as verbal or vitriolic as their sisters, they are physically stronger and can be terrifying in their anger, especially when it is directed towards their mothers, as it so often is," Mr Carr-Gregg writes.

"Somewhere along the line, these boys have been taught that it's OK, not just to talk to their mothers this way, but it's OK to talk to women this way, because they're somehow inferior and unimportant."

He said many psychologists agreed that kids take their most significant cues from the parent of the same sex.

ARE YOU A POSITIVE ROLE MODEL?

It's time for dads to step up, family experts are stressing, as modern-day girls face unprecedented anxiety about the world around them.

"So for boys, their template on how to be a man, how to relate to women, is learned through watching their father," he said.

"So if the father is absent psychologically or perpetrates these behaviours, then we shouldn't really be surprised that we're seeing this syndrome."

He said it was still a small proportion of boys who fit the "prince boofhead" category, and that many of these learned behaviours could be addressed by more discipline and boundaries in their earlier years.

"Make absolutely sure right from the start that they do help around the house, that they do speak in a courteous manner, not just to their fathers but also to their mothers and all adults," he said.

This week's word of the week is 'la primavera'. It means 'Spring'

ITALIAN CULTURAL MORNING

On Wednesday 11th October in the first week of next term, we are having our annual Italian cultural morning. This is a day when we celebrate all things Italian.

In the true Italian spirit of having fun and connecting with others, everyone is invited to come 'in costume'. The possibilities are endless, from gondoliers to gelati, the Ancients to artists, Saints to soccer stars, food to fashion, musicians to monuments, or just wearing the Italian colours verde, bianco e rosso (green, white & red).

Visiting performance group La Comica Variety will be presenting their show LE VACANZE in the school hall.

Tom the gelato man will also be visiting our school with his gelati van and children can pre-purchase a single cone rainbow flavoured gelati Italian ice-cream if they would like to.

A note will be sent home next week outlining the details of this performance and the gelati.

CSPS READING CHALLENGE

TIME IS RUNNING OUT!
GET INTO SME SERIOUS READING

COMPLETE THE CSPS READING CHALLENGE BY THE CLOSING DATE 15TH OF SEPTEMBER

By now, many of our students will have passed the halfway point in the CSPS Reading Challenge. If not, there is still time to catch up on some reading. We have extended the closing day by one week and look forward to seeing as many people as possible meeting their own personal reading challenge. Just remember, there is the chance to win some fabulous book prizes for those people who reach, or exceed their target number of books.

Here's a bit of trivia - DID YOU KNOW THAT, BY READING FOR JUST 15 MINUTES EVERY DAY, YOU WILL HAVE READ AROUND A MILLION WORDS IN ONE YEAR?

What an achievement for such a little amount of effort!
